City Hosts Free Concert “Cool Nights, Hot Tunes” Saturday, April 13, 2019

In the summertime heat of July, during the “Hot Nights, Cool Tunes” concert in Downtown Brenham, the question is often asked, “Why don’t they have one when it’s cooler?” Here it is!

Caz Muske, Brenham’s new Main Street Manager, is excited to announce “Cool Nights, Hot Tunes” on Saturday, April 13th. The popular Austin band “Suede” will entertain the crowd from 7:00 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. from a stage constructed at the corner of Alamo and Baylor streets. Families are encouraged to bring their lawn chairs and blankets to relax while listening to the concert. Muske says, “With the Chappell Hill Bluebonnet Festival April 13th and 14th during the day, Saturday night seemed like the perfect time for a concert in Downtown Brenham.” In addition to music, there will be food and drink vendors, and the volunteers of Main Street Brenham are bringing back the popular beer booth.

Event sponsors include: J & A Roofing, Brenham National Bank, and Hermann Furniture.
